Given the increasing impact of climate change and the concurrent need for economic resiliency, what is the role of financial institutions in leading and managing the transition to a greener economy?

Led by RenaissanceRe's Credit Team, our 16th Risk Mitigation Leadership Forum brings together key stakeholders to outline meaningful opportunities to effect positive change. Topics for discussion include transition risk and the role of risk transfer, financing of renewable energy, lower carbon construction in the housing market, the impact of ESG investment mandates, and the role of environmental risks in prudential frameworks for financial institutions.
